Taylor's to Release 50-Year-Old Single Harvest Tawnies

Taylor's holds one of the most extensive reserves of very old cask aged Port of any producer. They include a collection of rare Single Harvest Tawnies. These are Ports from a single year which age to full maturity in seasoned oak casks and display the year of harvest on the label.

Taylor's has decided to make a limited release, each year, of a Single Harvest Tawny Port made 50 years previously.

The first in the series is a 1964 Single Harvest Tawny of exceptional character. It will be available in time to be offered to consumers in markets around the world from January, 2014, for 50th anniversary gifts and celebrations throughout the year.

Taylor's Managing Director, Adrian Bridge, commented: "A 50th birthday or anniversary is a landmark occasion. Taylor's Single Harvest Tawny Ports offer a unique opportunity to celebrate with an extraordinary 50 year old wine in perfect condition."

The 1964 Single Harvest release will be followed a year later by the launch of an equally rare and exceptional 1965. Further annual releases of 50 year old Single Harvest Ports will follow.

The Taylor's Single Harvest Tawny Ports will be presented in the classic frosted bottle associated with Taylor's celebrated range of Aged Tawny Ports and will be presented in a high quality oak box. Quantities are limited so requests for allocations should be made as soon as possible.

Unlike Vintage Ports, which age in bottle, Single Harvest Tawny Ports are aged in seasoned oak casks and are fully mature and ready to drink when bottled. The long period of wood ageing gives them their characteristic amber colour, smooth velvety palate, warm mellow flavours and nose full of rich complex aromas. Single Harvest Tawny Ports are ready for immediate drinking and do not need to be decanted. Although best known for its elegant and long lasting Vintage Ports, Taylor's is also the leading producer of Aged Tawny Ports and holds one of the largest stocks of fine cask aged wine of any Port house.
